Parthos has been Europe's leading manufacturer of movable wall systems and folding doors, since 1968.

The creation of space and freedom of design are the two pillars upon which our product range is based. Flexibility in the use of space, thanks to Parthos products being an integral part of the interior design.

Parthos stands for traditional craftsmanship, quality and reliability (ISO 9001 certified)

Mono, closing on one side

The Mono emphasises the most essential aspects of movable partitions: the flexible and efficient utilisation of space in as simple a form possible.

The single panels form the basis of a robust accordion-style partition, which is exceptionally easy to handle.

The steel ball bearing trolleys, with PVC tyres, run swiftly and silently through the specially designed aluminium ceiling track, guaranteeing an easy and silent operation. The Mono does not require floor guides.

Parthos folding walls are not only user-friendly, they are also easy to install.

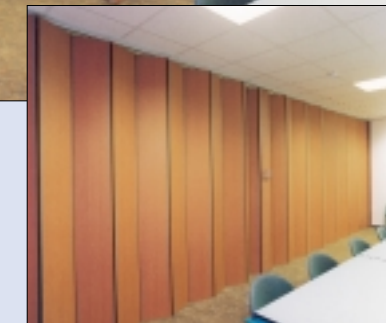

Installing the partition is simple: using the easy to follow instructions, a Mono can in principle be fitted single-handedly. However, our experienced installation teams would be pleased to relieve you of this job.

The Mono is available in different panel widths, and can be executed as a one side closure, centre closure or closure at both ends. And it's also possible to connect several walls on to each other.

Mono, centre closure

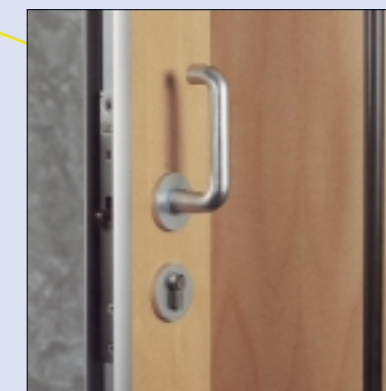

The closing post has a simple lock function. An enlarged closing post with a euro cylinder lock is an optional alternative.

When the partition is completely open, the panels occupy a surprisingly small space. Add this "space-friendliness" and the favourable cost of the partition to the broad choice of surfaces, and you will understand why the Mono proves its worth not only in commercial and industrial construction but also in the home.
